

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

INTRODUCTION.

Mr. Emerson says, "No man is worth his room in the world who is not commanded by a legitimate object of thought." Again he says, "The few superior persons in each community are so by their steadiness to reality and their neglect of appearances." What he says of persons in both statements may with equal propriety be said of books.

The author who is "commanded by a legitimate object of thought," has the first requisite necessary to make a book "worth its room in the world," and if he writes a book animated by "its steadiness to reality and neglect of appearances," it ought to have a place in the world.

Books like people have various ways of getting into their places in the world. This book comes and seeks its place by force of circumstances which could not well be resisted. The circumstances need not be enumerated. But the chief circumstance, or primary object was to give an historical and biographical sketch of the family in America.

It may seem selfish to mention the amount of labor that has been necessary in the accumulation of so much data, and this seems the proper place to express how much the author is indebted to George Smouse, Elmer S. Burket and John M. Smouse, members of the Committee on Data, and also the Rev. J. M. S. Isenberg, B. D., for the facts, and in many instances the very language herein given. But in a multitude of instances the facts refused to appear in suitable and concise form, and so had to be fashioned and rewritten.

It would have been a comparatively easy task to have inventoried all the facts. But that would not have been a noteworthy labor. There has not been another such ransacking of libraries, archives and church records in recent years, and although much has been obtained and accomplished by this diligent research, the author had to sift and analyze traditions and discover facts in many instances, and feels assured that the truth has been arrived at.

In the list of descendants it has been impossible to have all the names given and all the dates exact, and in this respect we must ask indulgence.

The honored and respected record of our ancestors should stimulate each and all of us to make the future name of the family still more honored and respected, and thereby transmit a legacy to our posterity of which they may be proud, and by so doing inspire them to attain unto the highest niche in the temple of honor and fame, thus amply rewarding us for all our labor and toil.

J. WARREN SMOUSE.

Martinsburg, Pa., 1908.

THE FIRST REUNION.

About one-eighth of a mile north-east of the Pennsylvania Railroad depot in the famous mining village of Henrietta, Pa., stood a log house one and one-half stories high, surrounded by a beautiful orchard of a variety of choice fruit, and just south of the road leading to the Tussey Mountain, whose lofty heights towering thousands of feet above, only a short distance east. Here lived Michael and Dorothy (Loose) Smouse, the greater part of their lives, or from 1838 to the time of their death, the former in 1875 and the latter in 1891.

During the summer of 1895, F. S. Burket, a grandson of Michael and Dorothy Smouse, and Administrator of the estate of Dorothy Smouse, deceased, sold the above-named property to John L. Smouse, a son of Michael and Dorothy Smouse. Two years later, or in 1897, the above John L. Smouse sold the property to Harry Ketner. Thus after fifty-nine (59) years of ownership by this one family of Smouses, the property went into other hands, and at the confirmation of this sale the thought came into the minds of Mrs. Elias Burket and Mrs. M. B. Stonerook, daughters of Michael and Dorothy Smouse, to hold a family reunion on the old homestead, before possession would be given to the new owners. In view thereof E. S. Burket, a grandson of the old owners, called a meeting for the last Saturday in October, 1897, inviting all the children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren of Mic' ael and Dorothy Smouse, to enjoy a day together.

The following children with their wives and husbands were present:

David F. Smouse and wife Lizzie.
 John L. Smouse and wife Lizzie.
 Elizabeth (Smouse) Burket and husband Elias.
 Barbary (Smouse) Coy and husband John.
 Nancy (Smouse) Stonerook and husband M. B.
 Maggie (Smouse) Stewart and husband John.

Grand Children.

Elmer S. Burket and wife Annie.
 Mrs. Annie Stoner.
 Sadie Houp and husband William.
 Lizzie Shultz and husband Porter.
 Mrs. Laura Hartman.
 Miss Dora Burket, Miss Ella Burket.
 Miss Rosa Smouse, Miss Nellie Smouse.
 Miss Dora Stewart, Eddie Stewart, Robert Stewart.
 Henry Stewart, David Stewart, Freddie Smouse.
 James Stonerook, Charles Stonerook and Mearl Coy.

Great Grand Children.

Roy Burket, Clark Burket, Rebecca Burket, Don. B. Shultz, John Stoner, Lloyd Stoner, Blair Hartman, Mary Hartman, Ruth Hartman and Wesley Houp.

The youngest son of Michael and Dorothy Smouse was not present, he living in Johnstown, Pa., and the invitation to attend said reunion failed to reach him in time.

The second reunion was held the first Saturday in September, 1898, at which time the family of Michael and Dorothy Smouse were fully represented and an enjoyable day was spent in reminiscences, games, &c.

In the following year, viz. 1899, the Rev. J. W. Smouse succeeded in having members of several Smouse families to meet with the Michael and Dorothy Smouse family, and prominent among the number assembled on that festive day was George Smouse, Sr., of Bedford, Pa. From his knowledge of the Smouses in America, the writer of this book received valuable data, as well as great encouragement. It was at this gathering that the Smouse Association of America was formed. Its object was to gather data, and to endeavor to bring all the different families to participate in the next reunion, to be held the following year, at Ashcom, Pa., on the farm once owned and occupied by John Smouse. The officers chosen were F. S. Burket, Altoona, Pa., President; J. W. Smouse, Yellow Creek, Pa., Secretary; A. M. Smouse, Martinsburg, Pa., Treasurer. A data committee was also selected at that time, to co-operate with the officers of the Association. The members of said committee were: Geo. Smouse, Bedford, Pa.; John M. Smouse, Henrietta, Pa.; and Elmer S. Burket, Altoona, Pa.

The inspiration of that day had such a marvelous effect that the annual reunions since then bring together thousands of kith and kin from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the lakes to the gulf.

The eleventh reunion of the Association held at Saxton, Pa., August 29, 1907, selected the following named persons as a committee on publication: J. W. Smouse, Thomas F. Smouse, George Smouse, Win Smouse, E. S. Feight, E. S. Burket, B. F. Gibbony, John Koontz and S. S. Nicodemus.

J. W. Smouse was unanimously selected to prepare the manuscript for the publishing of this book, and E. S. Burket was selected as Secretary-Treasurer of said committee and also soliciting agent.

The Name and Family.

The family is of German descent or extraction, and the language of the Fatherland gave place to the English, more than a generation ago among the Smouses of America. Prior to 1810, the name was written Schmaus, excepting in a few instances, it was spelled Smouse as early as 1790. In Germany it is still written Schmaus, with the exception of those families who live in Alsace, who spell the name Von Schmausen, yet they are descendants of Carl Smouse, born June 11, 1281. Many of the present generation are doubtless ignorant of the significance of the name. At the time of the great migrations, A. D., 500, and the division of Germany, all names of German origin were given or assumed by families, and referred to character, location, position or rank. The name Schmaus means robust, hearty and retund, and it also signifies loyalty.

In the province of Saxe-Coberg the name appears in history for the first time, and it was in the years 679-685 that Carl Schmaus was stationed at the town of Wohlsdorf as Colonel of "The Life Guards." In the year 715 we find that John Schmaus located at Coblenz and practiced medicine and surgery. He was also prominent in the affairs of state. His son, Peter Schmaus, was also a noted physician and surgeon. Albrecht Schmaus was a Captain in the German artillery service during the years 1768-1779. Many of the Schmauses in Germany and the Netherlands are prominent in the affairs of state. John Jacob Schmaus was a member of the Reichstad when he died 1892. John Henry Schmaus of Leipsic, is recognized as one of the ablest surgeons in the Kingdom.

The family in America has been, and still is noted for industry, progress and patriotism. From the time of, and during the French and Indian war, to the present time, some of those who bear the name have been in the armies of America.

In the field of Merchandise we find a vast number who are successful and prosperous. Many are famous, but the name occurs frequently among those who are teachers, doctors, lawyers and ministers; in most of the callings of life representatives of the family are to be found, reflecting honor and credit on their chosen calling.

As the families intermarried with those of other religious faiths, (the Lutheran church being the church of their faithers), or as they located in communities where the church of their faith was not, and being a people who loved their Lord and Master more than their denomination, they identified themselves with the church most convenient. Thus we find the name on the rolls of Presbyterian, Lutheran, Baptist, United Brethren, Methodist Episcopal, Brethren and other churches. Intelligence and industry have marked them, and as a result the family has been well represented in prominent positions in the church.

With the changes of location and church relation, there have been changes in political faith. Before the Civil War the family was solidly Democratic, and many are so yet. But we find many of the family to-day who are Republicans, some who are Prohibitionists, and some who are Populists.

The author of this book has been enabled through church records to trace the family lineage back to 1281, not a link being missed in the chain. Charles (Schmaus) Smouse was born June 11, 1281, and he was a merchant in his native city. His descendants were prominent in mechanism, medicine, merchandizing and theology. His son Jacob was born April 28, 1319, who was the father of nine children. His son Adam was born April 23, 1342. Adam was married at the age of 20 years, and was the father of ten children. His son Daniel was born September 19, 1370. Daniel had but two children, a son and daughter. His son Peter was born July 14, 1401. Peter was the father of six girls and four boys. Henry, his son, was born June 8, 1436. Henry had but one child, a son, whom he named Michael. This son was born February 12, 1460. Michael was the father of eight children, all boys.

His first-born he named Henry, who was born November 20, 1485. Henry was the father of Charles, who was born October 20, 1521, and at the age of 28 years married Mary Beacker, and had but one child when he (Henry) died. This child was John Schmaus, born March 19, 1550. John was the father of Adam, who was born January 24, 1583. Adam married Gretchen (Margaret) Bauer, and had six children born unto them. His son William was born December 14, 1610. He was married to Elizabeth Staker and had seven children. George, his son, was born May 10, 1638, and was married to Anna Pflug. He was the father of eight children. His son Peter, was born August 23, 1665. Peter Schmaus was united in marriage to Mary Fleishman. To this union were born six children. Henry, the first son, was born February 2, 1688. Henry was married to Catherine Foltz and had nine children—Henry, John, Anna, Mary, Phœba, James, Peter, David and Elizabeth.

John Smouse, son of Henry, and grandson of Peter Smouse, was born April 5, 1721. He in company with Casper Lutz, Valentine Wilt, Elias Nicholas Bender, Philip Smeltzer and Christian Miller, set sail at Bremen for the New World as it was then called, and after a tempestuous voyage landed at Baltimore, Maryland, September 19, 1738.

He remained in the city of Baltimore for only a few weeks, when he went to Loudon county, Virginia. He engaged with an old pioneer to drive team, which vocation he followed until the Spring of 1740, when he began farming. He also had a team of his own carrying freight from Baltimore into the settlements in Loudoun county, Virginia. During the French and Indian war he and Christian Miller were in the employ of the Government. They were hauling supplies and helped to cut a road from Carlisle to Fort Bedford. He was present with his team when that fierce battle was fought at Bloody Run, now Everett. He was one of eighteen men who with Captain Stone rescued six prisoners that were to be burned by the Indians. On the day following that of the battle Captain Stone being apprised of the doom awaiting the captives, called for volunteers to go at dead of night and rescue, if possible, their unfortunate comrades. Eighteen responded, and at midnight they started. Silently they marched through the forest, and when the first rosy hue of dawn appeared on the eastern horizon, with brave hearts and strong hands they dashed among the wigwams of the Indian camp and rescued their comrades, only one of the eighteen having received a slight wound.

It was at this time that he first saw the land or piece of ground in Bedford county, Pennsylvania, which he purchased in 1785. The deed for said land being dated August 24, 1785.

He was united in marriage to Mary Wohlfrom, of Loudoun county, Virginia. She was a redemptionist, that is, she had to serve four years as servant girl to a wealthy land owner, who had paid her fare, or passage from Germany to America. At the expiration of the tenure of service she had redeemed her pledge and was free. To the union of those two hearts were born nine children—Peter, George Adam, John, David, Michael, Charles, Catharine, Susan and Matilda. In the fall of 1785 he moved from Loudoun county, Virginia, and settled with his family on the farm now known as the Ashcom farm, Bedford county, Pennsylvania. His sons, Peter and George Adam, were soldiers from Loudoun county, Virginia, in the Revolutionary War. They were present at Yorktown when Cornwallis surrendered.

In 1791 Peter Smouse settled near Cumberland, Maryland. He was married to a Miss Heckmam. He was the father of seven children—Henry, David, Daniel, Peter, John, George and Maria.

In politics he was a Republican. There being no Lutheran church at Washington he and most of his family united with the First Presbyterian church of Washington, to which he was soon after elected a ruling elder, which office he efficiently filled until his death, which occurred April 28, 1899.

He was buried in Elmwood cemetery, Washington, Iowa. He was very active in promoting temperance and in favor of prohibition and lived a very consistent Christian life. His wife, Elizabeth, now lives at Washington, Iowa. She is 82 years of age.

Winfield Smouse, better known as Win Smouse, is a son of Henry Daniel Smouse, grandson of Henry Smouse, great grandson of Peter Smouse, great great grandson of John Smouse, the progenitor of the Smouse family in America.

Win Smouse was born on the old homestead farm (the brick house farm), five miles north-east of Cumberland, Maryland, January 17, 1849. He was educated at the Cumberland Academy and Rainsburg Seminary, and taught one term of school at the Union school house, near Smouse's Mill; he was then but 18 years old.

In April, 1867, he moved with his father's family to Washington, Iowa. On September 23, 1873, he was married to Elizabeth Smith, daughter of Hugh Smith, a merchant of Washington, Iowa. ond day after his arrival in Washington April 1867, as a clerk in his drug-store at $25 dollars per month. In the following July he was employed by Blair & Brocaw, dry goods merchants, at $35 dollars per month. The following year they advanced his salary to $500. The next year to $600 per year. Early in the spring of 1870 he left said firm and formed a partnership with his brother Leonard in the grocery and bakery business, under the firm name of L. & W. Smouse. On July, 1872, they sold out this business (in which they were very successful) and bought the largest hardware and implement business in the city, and for ten years they transacted a very large and profitable business, clearing over forty thousand dollars. In 1881 he was solicited to take a position in the First National Bank and the Washington County Savings Bank; he accepted the position of assistant cashier in the latter. At the end of one year he resigned this position and entered the real estate, exchange and loan business, besides investing in valuable real estate, the Washington Light plant, (of which he is President) and trading largely in stocks of merchandise, live stock and other property, in which he has been unusually successful, accumulating a large amount of land, town and city property, bank stocks and manufacturing interests. In 1882 he platted Win Smouse's East Side addition to Washington, 98 lots. In 1884 he platted Win Smoue's second addition to Washington of 130 lots. In 1892 he platted Highland Park addition of 430 lots. In this addition he laid out and beautified a six acre park with an artificial lake of three acres, built a boat house, &c. In 1895 he platted the Columbian addition to Washington of 296 lots. In 1898 he and his brother Leonard platted L. & W. Smouse's North-East addition of 90 lots. In 1882 he built the fine large three-story brick residence one block east of the public square, now owned by the Washington Commercial Club. In 1893 he bought the most valuable lot on the south-east corner of the public square and built the best and most modern brick block in the city, known as the Columbian Block, in which he has his residence and office.

In 1902 he platted and put on the market the new town of Haskins and spent over twenty thousand dollars in new buildings, side-walks, shade trees, etc. He has built more store buildings and houses and is the present owner of more real estate and pays more taxes than any other man in Washington.

In politics he is a Prohibition Republican. He has never been an office seeker. In 1896 he was appointed unanimously at a joint session of the Iowa State Legislature a trustee of the insane hospital at Mt. Pleasant, which office he held with credit until the trustee system was abolished by the State. In 1869 he united with the organization of Good Templars, at which time there were four breweries and about thirty saloons and drug stores selling liquor in the county. For years he was active in fighting the license of the liquor traffic in Washington. He was chairman of the County Central Committee during the campaign from 1880 to 1882, which had for its object the amending of the Constitution of the State prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage. The county was carried for prohibition by a large majority. In 1884 he was elected President of the County Temperance Alliance and director for the First District State Temperance Alliance, the object of which was to enforce the prohibitory laws, which succeeded in closing up all the breweries and saloons so that at this time and for many years past there have been no saloons nor drug stores selling liquors in Washington county. He united with the Zion Lutheran church near Cumberland, Maryland, in 1862, and on going to Washington, Iowa, he placed his church letter with the First Presbyterian church of the city, which church he served as secretary and afterwards for many years as superintendent son, and like his elder brothers, was very patriotic. His brothers, Peter and George A., were in the Revolutionary war. He was in the War of 1812. He and his brother Michael were at Pittsburg with their teams, having taken merchandise from Baltimore to the city on the Ohio, on their return to Fort Bedford, now Bedford, Pa., they engaged with the government and drove their own teams, until peace was declared, when they returned to their farms in Friends Cove, Bedford county, Pa. His brother, George A., owned a distillery at that time, and he had loaded fifteen barrels of apple jack to be taken to Baltimore, when the news reached him that a squad of soldiers were in the community taking every horse fit for service. His hired man, Mr. H. A. Hill, had just harnessed six horses, when the soldiers were seen coming over the bridge. Instantly he mounted the saddle horse, as he was then called, and driving the others ahead, he swam them across the river, took to the mountains, and thereby saved the horses. The apple jack never reached Baltimore, but it did reach the stomach of many a weary soldier.

Jacob, son of David, and grandson of John Smouse, was a Hercules for his years. When but sixteen years old, he was apprenticed to a man in Everett, Pa., to learn the tanner's trade. The man was abusive and mean. No one could please him, and one day tanner's oil was needed. He sent Jacob to Bedford, a distance of eight miles, to get a jug of oil. Having to pass through the "Narrows" where the river cuts through Tussey's mountain, he hid the jug, went to a friend in Friend's Cove, remained all night, left the following morning, and has never been seen or heard of, from that eventful day to the present. It was during the second month of his apprenticeship, he in company with a friend, went to what was then known as the stone tavern, east of Everett several miles, and being on the Philadelphia and Pittsburg pike, the house was patronized by the teamsters who were on this thoroughfare. It happened that Charles Mench, a teamster, and a pugilist or slugger, so called in those days, was at the bar when Smouse and his friend entered the door. He said to them, "Stranger, you can come in, but that young snot, (meaning Jacob Smouse), cannot enter or be in here while I am here." Smouse says to Mench, "I am in, and it will take a better man than you, or any other one here to put me out, and more than that, you called me a name for which you must apologize. I never had a quarrel or fight in my life, and you are a man and fighter, and I am a mere boy in years, but your superior in manners, in strength, and in behavior, and you must apologize or I will compel you to do so." Mench laid off his coat and vest, and said to those in the room: "Form a ring and I will show that young jack-a-napes that Charles Mench is the best man between Philadelphia and Pittsburg. Smouse buttoned his coat, walked into the ring, and the contest began. The writer of this sketch has it from an eye witness, who said that when Smouse struck his first blow, he took his antagonist clean off his feet, and that the blood flew to the ceiling of the room. The fight lasted forty-five minutes, and during all this time Mr. Mench never reached Mr. Smouse to give him a scratch. Mr. Mench not only apologized for his rudeness, but declared that Smouse was the best man in America.

To this union were born these children: Mildred May, October 2, 1890. Dorothy Olive, July 22, 1899.

Cathrine, daughter of John L. and Barbara Smouse, married John Bush. She was the mother of three children when she died. The names are unknown to the writer.

George B., son of John L. and Barbara Smouse, was born at Henrietta, Pa., June 12, 1872. He has been with the Pennsylvania Railroad as passenger brakeman and conductor for fifteen years. He was united in marriage to Miss Mary Cornelius August 15, 1891. To this union these children were born: Jesse, January 11, 1892. Jennie, February 10, 1894. Nettie, July 10, 1896. Lucy, March 5, 1899.

Jacob, son of John L. and Barbary Smouse, died in infancy.

Jennie, daughter of John L. and Barbary Smouse, was drowned in Johnstown flood. She was a guest of Mrs. Hornick in the Hulburt House when that building in which at the time were three score of occupants, was shattered to atoms by the mighty force of water, almost mountain high.

Minnie, daughter of John L. and Elizabeth Smouse, was born October 30, 1883. She was united in marriage to William Fetterman. To this union were born these children: Bertie, Eugene, Hazel and Harlan.

John E., son of John L. and Elizabeth Smouse, was born May 22, 1881. He was united in wedlock to Emma Sutter, and these children were born of this union: William, Harry and Henry.

Fidella, daughter of John L. and Elizabeth Smouse, was born at Punxsutawney, Pa., August 27, 1886. She married Charles McCulley, a locomotive engineer, of Bellwood, Pa.

Harry, James, Mary, Frederick and Nellie are still at home.

Mary, daughter of Michael and Dorothy Smouse, was born July 9, 1843. She was married to Samuel Burket. She died in December, 1880. Her children were Frederick, Elizabeth, Harry and Laura.

Frederick, son of Mary (Smouse) Burket and grandson of Michael and Dorothy Smouse, was born at Henrietta, Blair county, Pa., December 17, 1862. He served as President of The Smouse Association for five years and was greatly interested in its success. His grandfather, with whom he lived, died March 18, 1875, leaving him at an early age to care for his aged grandmother, which to him was a great pleasure. He was employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad in July, 1881, as a fireman, in which capacity he served for eight years, when he was promoted to be an engineer on the Pittsburg division. He was the engineer of the train which on the evening of December 20, 1897, dashed down the mountain from Gallitzin tunnel at a fearful rate of speed and crashed into a train standing in the yard at the passenger station of Altoona, Pa. The runaway train consisted of forty-five cars drawn by engine 604, which being reversed and running at the rate of a mile a minute, caused the wheels to become red hot. When the engine struck it was lifted like a toy and hurled completely westward. For several minutes the awful grinding continued and then quiet settled on the scene. Locomotives, passenger and freight cars together with poultry and merchandise of all sorts were heaped twenty feet in the air. Marvelous as it may appear the engineer and fireman suffered but slight injuries, though they stood by their posts on the engine while it ploughed into the train ahead, until scarcely a stick of timber or a whole portion of the engine remained. And thus being saved from death, Mr. Burket and the fireman fell upon their knees beside the terrible mass of debris and thanked God for their deliverance. It was no fault of Mr. Burket that the train ran away, and he was exonerated by the Coroner's jury. He was united in marriage to Maude Clark of Utahville, Pa., January 10, 1893, at No. 917 17th street, Altoona, Pa., by the Rev. S. F. Forgeus. To this union were born three children—Dorothy, born February 11, 1895. Daniel Gordon, born November 9, 1896, and Frederick Wooly, born January 30, 1899. He was a member of Calvary Baptist church, the Pennsylvania Railroad relief fund, the Odd Fellows, and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. He was an active member of the Pennsylvania Railroad Young Men's Christian Association and served as Vice President and as a member of the Board of Directors for a number of years. He died June 3, 1903, after an illness of ten days of typhoid pneumonia.

The following lines of poetry were written in honor of Mr. Burket:

OUR HEROES OF TO-DAY.

Eighteen hundred, ninety-seven; the twentieth of December
Was a day the people of Altoona will long remember,
'Twas just before Xmas; everything was serene and grand,
And no one dreamed of the dreadful catastrophe so near at hand.

The weather was the dreariest we'd had for many a day,
It rained, snowed and sleeted, while the air was chill and gray,
And people who ventured out you'd hardly think them sane
To see them hurrying with breathless haste to get indoors again.

Far up the mountain on Pennsylvania's famous railroad,
A train was moving along weighed down with a heavy load,
Its speed increased rapidly till it was going at a terrible rate,
And it still kept gaining headway pushed on by its awful weight.

The engineer—brave men who never know or have a fear—
Quickly reversed his engine and tried to stop its mad career;
He whistled help from the train hands, tho' he knew 'twas all in vain,
For a dozen men could not stop the mad rush of that heavy train.

Did he jump and try to save himself? Not that brave engineer.
He thought of all his loved ones and felt that death was near,
Yet he bravely and firmly remained there at his place,
As his train rushed down the mountain at such appalling pace.

He neither looked to the right nor left, but gazed straight on ahead
And saw just then, in its awful distinctness, the danger signal, red.
He pulled the whistle open wide, asked God for His protecting grace;
Reversed his engine once again, and stared Death calmly in the face.

Right before the station, on the same track, he saw another train:
Forgetting not his duty he tried again, with all his might and main,
To slack his speed, but 'twas too late, and with a mighty bound.
They went together with a crash that was heard for a mile around.

The debris and the ruins were almost magnificent in their awfulness,
How great it was only an eye-witness could nearly guess.

They found when it was quiet, after the roar and the tumult,
Three killed and a dozen injured was the sorrowful result.

Three homes where on Xmas would have been happiness and good cheer,
Were filled with desolation; were rendered sad and drear.
But that brave engineer was saved! a miracle they say,
Yes, performed by God whom he called on for help that fatal day.

We praise the heroes of the war, and say that they were brave;
Would stand or fall fighting their country's honor to save,
But the heroes of to-day; the men who know no fears;
Who face death every moment, are our noble engineers!

Long live those noble heroes! the men who are true and brave,
Who will always risk their own life some other life to save,
They shirk not their duty, even when death is nigh,
But trust all in their Creator who rules from on high.

At the expiration of one year he resigned his position as salesman to accept the position of shipping clerk in a wholesale grocery house in the same city. He by constant application fitted himself for teaching, and after three terms in the school room as teacher, he entered Greenville Academy and pursued a course of studies to fit himself for the pulpit as well as for the school room. He graduated with honors at the head of his class. Having an ambition in youth to possess a library, he at the age of twelve years commenced its collection, and has been successful in the highest degree, until now he has hundreds of volumes, some of which are rare and costly, having refused one hundred dollars for a German Bible, and also a fabulous price for an ancient Jewish history. He was ordained to the Gospel ministry September 27, 1877. He has been a successful evangelist, adding many hundreds to the church. Henry Smouse, a brother of John, located in Frederick county, Maryland. The writer has no data of his family except that given in Isenberg History by the Rev. J. M. S. Isenberg, and the author of this work is greatly indebted to Rev. Isenberg for so freely assisting in furnishing data, and in giving a brief biography of himself.

The following history of the three daughters of Mr. Smouse who married into the Isenberg family is taken verbatim from Isenberg History—

Enoch, Nicholas and Peter married sisters, daughters of one Henry Smouse. Enoch married Dorothy Smouse, born November 28, 1764. Nicholas married Mary and Peter married Margaret. (The Smouse family Bible, brought from Maryland to Pennsylvania, is in the writer's possession, a precious heirloom. The records of the same, except a fragment, have been lost, it having been rebound early in this century.) No record has been found of the maiden name of Henry's wife.

Enoch Isenberg's Descendants.

The record of the family of Mrs. C. R. McCarthy from 1761, or earlier, don't know date previous.

John Henry Isenberg lived in Maryland.

Enoch, second son, born April 4, 1761, came to Pennsylvania in 1802, married Dorothy Smouse, born November 28, 1764, daughter of Henry Smouse, and lived near Alexandria on the farm now known as the Robert Laird farm, which he then owned.

Henry, second son of Enoch, was born 1787, died 1869. Married Elizabeth Caraher, (or spelled Caracker, I think the first is correct), who died 1857. Lived near Alexandria, later near McConnellstown.

Joseph, sixth child of Henry, was born 1825, died 1902. Married twice; lived in McConnellstown.

I will quote a few remarks made by Rev. M. H. Sangree, D. D., of Harrisburg, Pa., in his memoriam of father, who knew him from a boy until death:

"His life by inheritance and early training was built of heroic material. He was not an ordinary boy, amid the many temptations and attempts to lead him away. He revered God, honored the Sabbath, read his Bible, went to church, searched for good books, sought the companionship of good men; he was industrious, exact and honest. This was his young manhood, as I remember it. And these marks of his early life continued through his maturer years and made it what it was, a very noble life. He was an honored elder in the Reformed church from early manhood."

Samuel Reid Isenberg died ———

4. James Milton Sangree, (1871), m 1896, Mary E.
Heffner, (1871), Reformed minister, Trinity church, Philadelphia.

James Milton Sangree, son of Joseph Isenberg and Mary Ann Norris, was born at McConnellstown, Pa., January 1, 1871. He was baptized in infancy and after a confession of faith in our Lord Jesus Christ was confirmed in Trinity Reformed church of that place at the age of sixteen.

His early education was obtained in the public schools of that town. At the age of seventeen he entered Ursinus Academy at Collegeville, Pa. He was graduated from Ursinus College with high honors in 1893. Three years later he was graduated from the School of Theology then at that place, being awarded the two prizes offered in Church History.

He was licensed to preach the gospel by Juniata Classis of the Reformed church in annual session at Marklesburg, Pa., 1896. He was then called to the pastorate of the Durham Reformed charge, Durham, Pa., where he was ordained to the Christian ministry. His pastorate at this point covered a period of sixteen months, when he resigned October 1, 1897, to accept a call to the First Reformed church, Spring City, Pa. This pastorate covered a period of seven years and a half. He resigned this pastorate to accept a call to Trinity Reformed church, Philadelphia. He began his pastorate in Philadelphia, February 1, 1905.

Splendid success has crowned his labors in each of these fields of labor. His present pastorate is in one of the first churches of the denomination, distinguished alike for its aggressive work and large benevolent contributions.

He has been honored by election to a number of positions of trust and responsibility. He is one of the managers of Pennsylvania Bible Society, the oldest Bible society in America. He is a Director of his Alma Mater, Ursinus College, having been elected to this office by his fellow alumni. He is also a member of the Board of Visitors to the Central Theological Seminary, Dayton, Ohio.

In May, 1896, he was united in marriage with Mary Heffner, of McConnellstown, Pa. Three children have blessed this union—Paul Heffner, aged 10 years; Lillian Marie, aged 6 years; and Helen Frances, aged 5 years.

He has been the historian of the Isenberg family, whose ancestry has been so closely related to that of the Smouses. He is now engaged on a new and enlarged history of the family. His present home address is 1541 N 7th street, Philadelphia.
